

Key messages about the introduction for use of the Treatment Escalation Plan (TEP) and Resuscitation Decision Record

1. The Treatment Escalation Plan (TEP) and Resuscitation Decision Record is a clinical decision making tool and common sense should be applied to who should have one.
2. Only complete appropriate boxes.
3. The Treatment Escalation Plan (TEP) and Resuscitation Decision Record form should be completed in collaboration with the patient and family where possible and should be reviewed over time.
4. The Treatment Escalation Plan (TEP) and Resuscitation Decision Record is only good if everyone knows it exists – update the Electronic End of Life Register (Adastra).
5. The Treatment Escalation Plan (TEP) and Resuscitation Decision Record travels with the patient wherever they go.
